Dr Anton Vrame

Dr. Vrame

Dr Anton (Tony) Vrame is a well-known Orthodox specialist in Christian Education. A native of Chicago, he earned degrees from DePaul University and the University of Chicago. After a short time working in Chicago Public Schools he entered Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology earning a Masters of Divinity in 1989. Upon graduation, he worked as the Associate Director of the Department of Religious Education for the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese and was actively involved in the development of the "Living Our Orthodox Faith" curriculum series. In 1997, Dr Vrame received a PH.D. in Theology and Education from Boston College.

From 1996 to 2002, Dr Vrame was the managing editor of Holy Cross Orthodox Press producing sixty new titles and developing its editorial review policies. He has served as adjunct Assistant professor in Christian Education at Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology and Lecturer in Religious Education at St. Vladimir's Orthodox Theological Seminary.

Apart from serving on the Board of Directors of the Religious Education Association, and Vice-President of the Orthodox Theology Society in America, Dr Vrame represents the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese on the Faith and Order Commission of the National Council of Churches and currently serves as the Vice-Chair of the Orthodox Christian Education Commission (OCEC) under the auspices of the Orthodox Assembly of Bishops of North America.

Dr Anton Vrame is the author of "The Educating Icon: Teaching Wisdom and Holiness in the Orthodox Way" and Executive Editor of the award-winning religious education magazine "Praxis."
